MINING AT FULL SPEED TO BE ON
BY MONDAY NEXT

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 12.—Practically fifty per cent of the normal amount of coal produced daily in Indiana was hoisted from the mines today and mining at full speed is expected to begin Monday, a statement by officials of the Indiana bituminous coal operators' association announced tonight.

Car shortage, it was said, would be the only thing to impede normal shipment of coal next week.

Reports from outside Indiana were not so optimistic. Illinois miners, it was reported, are slow in returning to work in many instances and a few locals in Pennsylvania reported to United Mine Workers' headquarters here that some mine owners had refused to operate their properties unless the miners repudiated the union.

It was believed that reports such as those received in Pennsylvania would be the subject of federal investigation.

Mine operators and wholesalers in Indiana today generally increased the price of contract coal 14 per cent. This action, it was said, was based on a clause in most of the contracts providing that should the cost of production of coal at the mines increase or decrease during the life of the contract the coal to the buyer would be increased or decreased in an amount to cover the change in cost of production.

It was stated that very little coal is purchased by retail dealers on contract and that therefore the price will remain at the figure fixed by the government, as far as domestic consumers are concerned.

Plans for the federal grand jury investigation of alleged violation of anti-trust laws and the Lever fuel control act, by operators, miners and dealers, were continued today. The investigation is scheduled to begin next Wednesday. It is believed that charges of contempt of court for violation of the federal injunction against furtherance of the strike, now pending against eighty-four international and district officials, will be dismissed. Hearing of these charges is set for Tuesday morning.

Miners Returning to Work. SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 12.—Mines in the vicinity of Springfield began resumption of work today with from fifty to 75 per cent of the usual working force on duty. Reports to the state office of the miners' organization indicated that the majority of the strikers had returned to work although there was dissatisfaction in various places with the Indianapolis agreement.

Frank Farrington, president of the Illinois miners, sent telegrams to several dissenting locals today ordering the men to return to work immediately and advising them that miners in other fields were resuming work and that Illinois could not carry on the fight alone.

Operators in this district hoped by Monday to be producing the normal output.

Reports were received tonight that miners at Stonington and Kincaid, who first declared they would not return to work, today voted to return tomorrow.

EIGHT CHILDREN HAD CROUP.

"I have eight children and give Foley's Honey and Tar to all of them," writes Mrs. P. Rehkamp, 2404 Berman St., Covington, Ky. "They all were subject to croup." It loosens and clears mucous and phlegm, stops that strangling cough, makes easy breathing possible and permits quiet sleep. It contains no opiates, and children like it. Good for colds, bronchitis, coughs and the coughs that linger on after influenza or grip. Good for grownups as for children. A. R. McIntyre Drug Co.—Advertisement.

"A Game of Chess"

The comedy drama, "A Game of Chess," was presented in the ward hall by the First ward Sunday school class last night. Considerable applause greeted the young thespians and the work of the entire cast was good. The play will be repeated this evening. The cast follows: Mrs. Sarah Weatherby, Helen Crosbie Donald Weatherby, her eldest son; Kenneth Holbrook, Cynthia Warner, spinster friend of the Weatherbys; Florence Combe, Wellington Troy, salesman; Edward Holbrook, Helen Trumbull, Weatherby's niece; Ramona Jensen, Sallie Smart, a neighbor's child; Joe Weatherby, the younger son; Silas Weatherby, owner of Oak Farm; Lee Purrington, Jonathan Prune, village postmaster; Stanley Purrington, Dr. Meredith, village physician; John Vernieu, Professor Spudge, district school teacher; John Arrowsmith.

Famous Japanese
Actor Plays Part Of An American

TOKIO, Nov. 19.—(By Mail)—A famous Japanese actor, Koshiro, played the role of Townsend Harris, the first American minister to Japan in a play presented in the Japanese language in the Imperial Japanese theatre the other day. Koshiro gave a faithful portrayal of America's first diplomat to Japan, having borrowed a portrait of Mr. Harris from the American embassy, through the kindness of Roland S. Morris.

The play was called "America-n-tsu-kai" or "The American Messenger," and was written by Okamoto Kido. This gate of the Azabu temple in Tokyo which housed the first diplomatic mission from the United States was the background for the first scene of the play. Two

Freeman's Journal
Warns America Not To Be Deceived

DUBLIN, Nov. 27.—America is warned by the Freeman's Journal not to be deceived by proposals which may be made by the British cabinet committee on home rule. The Journal criticizes the plan of the cabinet committee so far as it has been revealed by the reports circulated in Ireland. The newspaper's attitude is believed to represent that of the old Irish party.

The scheme proposes partition in its worst form, and it ensures the grip of the bankrupt wasters of Whitehall on the solvent Irish purse. The authors know the fate that awaits the scheme. It has two purposes, to throw dust in the eyes of America and to enable the home rule act to be scrapped. The scrapping was decided on long before the committee was constituted or even contemplated. But in the uncertainty of affairs at Washington the scrapping has to be done under careful cover and under pretense of offering a settlement on much more generous terms than have ever been proposed before. The generosity can be measured by the proposed trick to keep the control of the Irish purse in British hands. America will not be deceived.

a scene in a tea house in which a serving maid overhears a plot of two ruffians who are to lay in wait for the minister on a nearby hill and kill him.

One scene is laid at the approach to the bridge of the great temple of Zozon, where the minister was attended by an escort of samurai. Just as they reach the place of ambush the tea house minis rushes to the rescue, stops the retreating and delivers information about the plot. Before long two parties are engaged in a hand to hand fight. Townsend Harris in his white dust coat emerges from his palanquin, pistol in hand. But his escort ends the fray before he is obliged to use his pistol. One of the protecting samurai is the lover of the tea house maid, he slain. In the final scene Harris is shown placing a bouquet of white lilies on the coffin of the slain young samurai.

Federal Election
Being Held in Australia Today

MELBOURNE, Australia, Dec. 13.—Federal elections are being held in Australia on December 13. Not only will a new commonwealth parliament be chosen, but the people will pass upon proposed amendments to the constitution empowering the government to deal with monopolies, profiteering and Bolshevism.

The opponents at the polls will be the Nationalists and the Labor Party. The Nationalists are now in power. Their leader is the Prime Minister, William H. Hughes. He is seeking re-election to the house of representatives by his electorate Bendigo, Victoria.

The campaign has been enlivened by the entry into federal politics of Thomas J. Ryan, until lately Labor premier of the state of Queensland, who is a candidate for election to the house of representatives from a Sydney electorate. If elected, it is surmised that ultimately he will become the leader of his party. He is noted in Australia for his sympathy with Ireland, and for efforts by his administration in Queensland to provide cheap meat for the people. These efforts took the form of state butcher shops and state cattle ranches.

Should the Nationalists be kept in power,
